WEDNESDAY, October 17, 1758.

NAPLES, July 8.

ON the 2d inſtant arrived here a tartan from Trapani, the maſter of which reports, that the corſairs of Barbary had lately taken in the Sicilian ſeas, two Neapolitan tartans, loaded with materials for the new fortifications of Gargonti; but that two galliots of Trapani having given them chace, had not only obliged them to abandon their prizes after a ſmart engagement, but had alſo taken one of thoſe corſairs, on board of which was 129 men, who had been made ſlaves.

Rome, July 11. The miniſter plenipotentiary from the king of the Two Sicilies has declared, that his Sicilian majeſty has agreed to permit the penſion of 3000 crowns, which the late archbiſhop of Capua enjoyed out of the revenues of an abbey in the kingdom of Naples, to be raiſed there for cardinal York.

Hanover, July 24. The king had a few days ago another fit of the ſciatica, but is now quite recovered from it. The count de Haſlang, miniſter from the elector of Bavaria, had conferences the 17th, 18th and 20th inſtant with the duke of Newcaſtle; and as they could not entirely agree, the count had likewiſe a private audience of the king, who gave him to underſtand, that he had the intereſt of the elector of Bavaria very much at heart, being naturally inclined thereto; but as his electoral highneſs muſt be the beſt judge of what perſonally concerns him, his majeſty thought he could take no better courſe than to abide by what the elector himſelf ſhould reſolve, with reſpect to the laſt propoſitions made to him; and that, whatever his determination might be, his majeſty would retain the ſame good will for his electoral highneſs, not only as a very conſiderable member of the empire, but as an antient ally of the electoral houſe of Hanover.

Hamburg, July 24. Our bankers have lately received conſiderable remittances from Paris and Madrid, for the Swediſh court.

Edinburgh, July 16. By a private letter from London, we are informed, that our Britiſh ſhips have had very good ſucceſs this ſeaſon in the Greenland whale fiſhery, eighteen of theſe ſhips having taken 30 large whales.

Peterſburg, June 19. Within this month paſt 25 gallies have been launched here and at Cronſtadt, in order to join the grand fleet, in caſe of need.

Stockholm, June 16. The 12th inſtant a veſſel arrived here from Narva, the maſter of which reports, that divers Ruſſian men of war, and ſeveral gallies, had ſailed from Cronſtadt, ſteering for the coaſts of Livonia. The 14th, a courier arrived from Peterſburg, whoſe diſpatches occaſioned a private conference at the palace; and yeſterday an expreſs was diſpatched to Paris; and divers orders were ſent to our ſeaports at the ſame time.

Paris, July 3. According to letters from Alſace, they continue to raiſe recruits at Straſburg, and the other towns of that province, with as much diligence as ever; part of which recruits is deſtined for compleating the regiments quartered in Dauphiny and Provence.

Paris, July 4. We have juſt received advice, that Charles de Thubiere de Grimoard de Peſtel de Levy, marquis de Caylus, Chef d'Eſcadre of the king's naval forces, and his majeſty's lieutenant general and governor of the iſlands in America, died at Martinico the 14th of May, aged about 52.

Conſtantinople, June 3. The plague having again broke out in this metropolis, moſt of the foreign miniſters are gone into the country. The grand ſignior, who had been ſome time indiſpoſed, is now in perfect health. In conſequence of the orders iſſued by his highneſs for making ſtrict enquiry after the authors of the late fire, ſeveral perſons have been lately taken up, and it becomes every day more apparent by their depoſitions, that the Janizaries were the deepeſt concerned in that black affair. The Captain Baſhaw (high admiral) ſtill has potent enemies in the Seraglio, and his diſgrace and exile are looked upon as being very near at hand. In the mean time he has put to ſea with five men of war and ſeveral light veſſels, in order to viſit the iſlands of the Archipelago, and receive the annual tributes thereof.

M. Celſing, whom the king of Sweden lately veſted with the character of envoy extraordinary to the porte, had a few days ago a private audience of the grand vizir, to whom he delivered his new credentials. Some days after, he was admitted to an audience of the grand ſignior, to whom he then delivered ſome rich preſents from his Swediſh majeſty; ſince the firſt public audience it is remark'd, that he has frequent conferences with the grand vizir, and the principal members of the divan. It is not doubted but that thoſe conferences turn chiefly on the affairs of the North; but whatever pains this miniſter, and thoſe of the powers in alliance with Sweden, may take to bring the grand ſignior into the meaſures and views of that crown, in caſe matters cannot be amicably accommodated between it and Ruſſia, there is room to believe that his highneſs will not depart from the reſolution he has hitherto manifeſted, which is, not to concern himſelf with the quarrels that may happen between the Chriſtian powers, unleſs it be to employ his good offices towards reconciling them.

Gombroon, in the Eaſt Indies, February 11. Captain Liſle is order'd to hoiſt a broad pendant in India, where he is to ſtay three years, and to diſpoſe of the ſhips under his command to ſuch parts of India as may be thought moſt for the company's intereſt. Two 20 gun ſhips are to cruize in this gulf and Mocha. Madraſs is reſettled, and promiſes to be as flouriſhing a place as ever. During the time it was in poſſeſſion of the French, none of the ſubjects returned, and the town was reduced to great ſtreights for proviſion; but on the news of the Engliſh returning there, every body got ready, and as ſoon as the Britiſh flag was hoiſted, they came in from all parts, and in 14 days time there were merchants in town that would take off 4 or 5 Bengal cargoes for ready money. Admiral Boſcawen made it a free port for 6 months.

Genoa, May 23. The affairs of Corſica are ſtill embroiled as much as ever, no ſecret being as yet found out to calm them. Our trade recovers, it is true; but the pyrates obſtruct it very conſiderably. The maſter of a Dutch ſhip informs us, that two veſſels of his nation were viſited between Ivica and Barcelona, by a ſquadron of Algerine corſairs, conſiſting of 4 ſhips and 10 xebecks, which cruize in that ſea. A pink from Temini met three others off Mount Argentiere, and ſome veſſels from Corſica bring advice, that there are two Barbary galleys cruizing between that iſland and Gargonna. We talk indeed of making an effort to ſcour the ſea of thoſe rovers; but the event hath not confirm'd all that has been ſaid on this ſubject for many months paſt.

Amſterdam, June 29. All meaſures that can be thought of are taken here to deſtroy the Engliſh herring fiſhery, and we have ſome room to hope for ſucceſs, tho' 30 traitors to their country are gone into the ſervice of the Engliſh upon this occaſion. They have endeavour'd for ſome time paſt to debauch our workmen, in order to get the true method of making the pickle, but have not yet ſucceeded; and it is queſtioned whether any of the rogues they have gained over, are ſufficiently ſkilled to let them into that ſecret.

Vienna, July 2. The Imperial troops are actually in motion on every ſide, in order to form the intended camp.

LONDON,

Extract of a private letter from Glasgow, dated June 28.

"Several parties of Col. Herbert's regiment of foot are gone on commands to the North, on information that the plaid dress was as much worn as ever, notwithstanding the laws to the contrary; and that many of them being armed, had resisted the parties sent after them, and obliged them to be augmented; that some skirmishes had happened between them, wherein several of both sides had been wounded; that about 18 of them have been taken and committed to prison.

"On the 16th instant about 50 of them, mostly armed, had a skirmish with the soldiers, wherein three of the Highlanders were very dangerously wounded, which were all that could be taken, one of whom is since dead.

"Col. Herbert's regiment, which was ordered Southward, is countermanded, and ordered to be quartered in the North.

"It is said that the camp which lately broke up at Air, will be fixed there again, in order to have parties in readiness to suppress the Highland dress."

St. John's, Antigua, August 3.

Yesterday arrived here the brig. Rebecca, Capt. Greenway, bound from Philadelphia to Surinam; but after being a fortnight out, his vessel was overset by a sea which took her on the side, and after cutting away her masts, lay in that condition 48 hours before she righted, the sea carrying away their water, and every thing else that was upon deck; they must undoubtedly have perished, had they not afterwards met with the most favourable weather. There was fortunately for them some beer put on board as part of the cargo, which supported them instead of water, during a tedious passage of seven weeks, from the time of their arrival here.

Halifax, in Nova Scotia, August 31. The 23d arrived the Alderney, Capt. Neal, from England, with about 300 English and 120 Swiss, for settlers here, and we daily expect the Nancy, a brig. with more settlers, chiefly Swiss. The 19th instant a large detachment of soldiers march'd from hence for Chignecto, in order to drive the French quite from thence, and to secure that place entirely to ourselves; in which I hope they will be successful, as it must consequently turn out greatly to our advantage here. Another detachment is expected to march from hence in a few days, in order to join the former. We are all in a good state of health, and daily enlarging our new settlement.

BOSTON, September 10.

Last Monday arrived here a vessel from Ireland, with upwards of two hundred passengers, among whom, 'tis said, are persons of considerable substance.

At the court of assize and general goal delivery held here on Friday last, Owen Sullivan and John Tias, were tried for making bills in imitation of the ten shilling bills of this province: They were both convicted, and received the following sentence, viz. Sullivan to stand on the pillory two hours, and receive 20 stripes at the public whipping post; and Tias to stand on the pillory one hour, and receive 15 stripes.

Last Friday a man who calls himself Shebuel Hubbard, and says he belongs to Groton, was apprehended and sent to goal, he having in a different dress, and four different names, four times received orders from the committee for exchanging the bills, to the treasurer, for nineteen pounds old tenor each, which he alter'd or procur'd to be alter'd into ninety; three of which being paid in silver, a discovery of the fraud was made; and notwithstanding enquiry was made after him, having got a fourth order just before by a different name, and in a different habit, he had the confidence to go to the treasury to get it exchang'd, where he was immediately seiz'd. We hear his horse and greatest part of the money were found at Charles-Town.

NEW-YORK.

Sept. 10. Last Thursday night came in here the ship Jacob, Richard Harris commander, in 30 days from the Bay of Honduras; who informs us, that just as he was coming out, he spoke with Capt. Fones in a Rhode Island vessel, who told him, he heard the ship Oswego, Capt. Lilly from this port, bound for the bay, was taken off Rattan, by the Spaniards about 3 weeks before:——The 18th of last month, Capt. Harris off the Havannah, spoke with Capt. Atwood of Boston, bound home from the bay, who inform'd him, That the beginning of August, he saw a vessel ashore on the Colleradoes at the West end of Cuba, on which he hoisted out his boat, and sent her on board; but finding no people on board, they search'd her, and found her log-book, by which they were ascertain'd she was the brig. William, Augustine Lawrence master, of New-York, who sailed from the bay four weeks before Capt. Harris;——she was fast on the rocks, and had above 4 feet water in her hold; her long-boat stove along side, and both her anchors out astern: They suppos'd the men to be taken out by the Spaniards. We hear Capt. Harris designs immediately for Europe with his cargo.

October 1. Capt. Broadhurst, who arrived here last week from the North of Scotland, informs us, That on the 14th of last month, in lat. 137, 31, and long. 53, 14. he spoke with the snow Irene, Capt. Garrison, of and from this port, bound for Holland, who had in a hard gale of wind some days before, lost her foremast and bowsprit, but had got up a small jury-mast; with which he was standing to the Northward:—— The same day, Capt. Broadhurst spoke with a ship from St. Kitts, who told him, two days before he met with a new ship from New-York, for London, which had lost almost all her sails in the hard winds, and was endeavouring to put back again:—— This ship is suppos'd to be Capt. Goelet; who, together with Capt. Garrison, sail'd the latter end of August from this place.
